

Assessment Date: ____/____/____ Student: _____ Examiner: _____
Words Read Correctly (WRC): _____ Errors: _____ Notes: _____

To Kill A Vampire Part 3

Hy Conrad

"A big jerk," said a newcomer. It was the gypsy woman, otherwise known as Gina Gershwin, personnel director. "Did anyone see Mr. Jericho go out on the balcony?"	15 28
Carol asked. "No," said Kendall. "No one remembers seeing him for at least half an hour before the body was discovered." "Actually, I think I discovered the body," said a cowboy who had just joined them. His name was Herbert Horner, senior accountant. "I got here rather late."	43 58 72 76
"Right," Gina agreed. "We didn't think you were coming. I was just uncorking the last bottle of wine when you walked in."	91 98
"That's not my point," said Herbert. "My point is I took a shortcut through the alley. I saw Thad up on the balcony, already dead. I thought it was a decoration."	115 129
"Did you see anything else?" Carol asked.	136
"No," said Herbert. "I just came up and joined the party. About ten minutes later, Gina and Kendall found him out there."	152 158
"Mom," Jonah whispered. "I need to talk to you."	167
For the first time, the guests noticed that there was a twelve-year-old among them dressed as Sherlock Holmes. Gina cracked a smug smile. "Looks like we have our own little detective here. Maybe you can tell us who killed him."	183 198 209
Jonah looked up to his mother. "Can I, Mom?" "Go ahead," Carol said and saw the gypsy's smile fade.	225 228

"A big jerk," said a newcomer. It was the gypsy woman, otherwise known as Gina Gershwin, personnel director. "Did anyone see Mr. Jericho go out on the balcony?" Carol asked. "No," said Kendall. "No one remembers seeing him for at least half an hour before the body was discovered." "Actually, I think I discovered the body," said a cowboy who had just joined them. His name was Herbert Horner, senior accountant. "I got here rather late."

"Right," Gina agreed. "We didn't think you were coming. I was just uncorking the last bottle of wine when you walked in."

"That's not my point," said Herbert. "My point is I took a shortcut through the alley. I saw Thad up on the balcony, already dead. I thought it was a decoration."

"Did you see anything else?" Carol asked.

"No," said Herbert. "I just came up and joined the party. About ten minutes later, Gina and Kendall found him out there."

"Mom," Jonah whispered. "I need to talk to you."

For the first time, the guests noticed that there was a twelve-year-old among them dressed as Sherlock Holmes. Gina cracked a smug smile. "Looks like we have our own little detective here. Maybe you can tell us who killed him."

Jonah looked up to his mother. "Can I, Mom?" "Go ahead," Carol said and saw the gypsy's smile fade.