

Assessment Date: ____/____/____ Student: _____ Examiner: _____
Words Read Correctly (WRC): _____ Errors: _____ Notes: _____

In the Ditch Pt 3

Room 24

Suddenly, out of nowhere, I saw a hand reaching down into the ditch. As I looked	16
closer, I noticed the hand was old and wrinkled and was wearing a pink sweater.	31
Wait...I recognise that sweater... It was Grandma! “Come on Josh, let’s get you out of	46
there and back home where it is warm and safe.” Gently, Grandma lifted me out of the	64
ditch and hugged me tightly. “Grandma, how did you know where to find me?”	79
“Don’t be silly Josh, the exact same thing happened to your father many years ago.	94
When I couldn’t find you in your room this was the first place I looked.”	110
Surprisingly, Dad wasn’t as angry as I thought he would be when Grandma told him	125
what I had been up to. “Well, I guess there is no denying that you are my son,” dad	145
chuckled. “I knew you would eventually get past me, I’m just glad that your	159 grandmother found you faster than she did me. I ended up spending an hour in that	175 ditch before she heard me crying.” I guess I am lucky that Dad was just as big a	194 problem child as I am but believe me, next time he tells me not to do something I will	213
at least think twice before trying it.	220

Suddenly, out of nowhere, I saw a hand reaching down into the ditch. As I looked closer, I noticed the hand was old and wrinkled and was wearing a pink sweater. Wait...I recognise that sweater... It was Grandma! “Come on Josh, let’s get you out of there and back home where it is warm and safe.” Gently, Grandma lifted me out of the ditch and hugged me tightly. “Grandma, how did you know where to find me?” “Don’t be silly Josh, the exact same thing happened to your father many years ago. When I couldn’t find you in your room this was the first place I looked.”

Surprisingly, Dad wasn’t as angry as I thought he would be when Grandma told him what I had been up to. “Well, I guess there is no denying that you are my son,” dad chuckled. “I knew you would eventually get past me, I’m just glad that your grandmother found you faster than she did me. I ended up spending an hour in that ditch before she heard me crying.” I guess I am lucky that Dad was just as big a problem child as I am but believe me, next time he tells me not to do something I will at least think twice before trying it.